Abstracts

The Telecoms Pricing Mobile Payments – 2019 report is a 92-page report and consists of 49 figures including tables and charts. It provides a survey of the development of global Mobile Payments in both emerging and developed markets and the role of the MNO (Mobile Network Operator) in the Mobile Payment arena.

Mobile Payments are being adopted increasingly rapidly in both emerging and developed markets. MNOs (Mobile Network Operators) are also becoming increasingly active in providing services mobile payments, for retailers and merchants, but the market for Mobile Payments is being catered for by a variety of other players including smartphone providers, e-commerce providers, digital content providers, banks and FinTech start ups as well. Into 2019 the worldwide Mobile Payments market is set to become increasingly dynamic and disruptive with a range of new business models and entrants being developed.
