Abstracts

Global soaps market is projected to grow from around $ 24 billion in 2019 to $ 40 billion by 2025, on account of increasing personal disposable income, rapid urbanization coupled with rising concerns for maintaining good hygiene. Moreover, expanding population, increasing consciousness and awareness about COVID-19 disease, is further boosting demand for soaps across the globe.

In terms of types, the global soaps market is categorized into bar soaps and liquid soaps. Liquid soaps category witnessed faster growth over the last five years and is projected to grow at a higher pace than solid soaps throughout the forecast period as well. The liquid soaps segment has captured the majority share in the market due to ease and comfort level which consumer get while using them than solid soaps, resulting in rising sales of liquid hand wash and bath & showers gels. Also, rising use of loofahs with shower gels, add more convenience during bathing than solid soaps owing to which the liquid soaps category has been witnessing significant growth and is anticipated to maintain its dominance in the coming years.

Regionally, the global soaps market is dominated by Asia-Pacific, followed by North America and Europe. Growth in APAC soaps market is majorly attributable to the region's expanding population coupled with rapid urbanization and presence of major manufacturers of soaps in the region.

Some of the major players operating the global soaps market include Unilever, The Procter & Gamble Company, Reckitt Benckiser Group plc, Henkel AG & Company, KGaA, Colgate-Palmolive Company, among others.
