Abstracts

India air conditioner market value in the year 2021 stood at USD4287.41 million, which is anticipated to grow at a CAGR of 6.08% during the forecast period, 2023-2027, to achieve a market value of USD6054.96 million by 2027. The India air conditioner market is anticipated to achieve this growth owing to the rising temperature in the country. The demand for air conditioners is spiking due to rising disposable income among the population and the surging demand for lavish lifestyles. A surge in demand for the appliance from the industrial sector, commercial sector, as well as residential sector is further aiding the market growth. Rising GDP, growing per capita income, along with affordability are driving the surge in sales and thus supporting the growth of the India air conditioner market in the upcoming five years. Additionally, the growing e-commerce sector, availability of multiple branded products, and feasibility of online delivery and installment & maintenance charges & services also support the growth of the India air conditioner market in the next five years. Rapidly growing infrastructure, higher standards of living, growing instances of climatic adversity like heat stroke, and extreme temperature hikes during the summer season are some of the major factors substantiating the growth of the India air conditioner market in the future five years. Furthermore, increasing investment in the research and technological advancement in the air conditioners to make the appliances more economical, decreasing energy consumption are also influencing the growth of the India air conditioners market in the forecast years through 2027.

The India air conditioner market is segmented on the basis of product type, end use sector, regional analysis, and competitive landscape. Based on product type, the market is bifurcated into splits, windows, VRF, chillers, and others like cassette, ductable splits, etc. By end use sector, the market is fragmented into residential, commercial, and industrial. The market is also analyzed on the basis of regional market shares differentiated into the North India region, South India region, East India region, and West India region. Split air conditioners are of two types; single split and multi split. Split air conditioners are anticipated to hold the largest revenue shares of the market and dominate the market segment in the upcoming five years due to growing demands for the aesthetically appealing air conditioners being installed inside the home but the vents being out of sight. Moreover, the higher power efficiency of the split air conditioners is also a major factor behind the segmental growth along with the growth of the India air conditioners market in the future five years.
