Abstracts

Metallocene linear low-density polyethylene (mLLDPE) demand in India is projected to grow at a CAGR of 7.00% during 2019-2030. As metallocene linear low-density polyethylene has properties like flexibility and elasticity, its use is growing in the manufacturing of flexible packaging, extrusion coated lamination and rotational molding in food and industrial packaging applications. Moreover, mLLDPE experiences strong demand from food packaging materials, heavy duty sacks and stretch films for end use application in the packaging sector. Robust demand for metallocene linear low-density polyethylene from the agriculture industry is anticipated to further aid the country's mLLDPE market during the forecast period.
