Abstracts

According to “North America Animal Feed Additive Market By Type, By Livestock, By Country, Competition Forecast & Opportunities, 2013 – 2023” animal feed additive market is projected to reach $ 2.26 billion by 2023, owing to growing consumption of meat as a source of protein. Moreover, technology innovations, increase in livestock production and intense use of animal husbandry for crop production due to shortage of water in the region are among the key factors anticipated to aid the animal feed additive market. Increasing preference for processed food and alarming necessity to improve food security is driving the aquaculture sector, which in turn is anticipated to positively influence the region’s animal feed additive market in the coming years. Some of the major players operating in North America animal feed additive market are DSM Nutritional Products, Inc., Evonik Corporation, DowDuPont Inc., Adisseo USA Inc., BASF Corporation, Cargill, Incorporated, Lonza Inc., Archer Daniels Midland Company, Novozymes North America, Inc., Chr. Hansen Inc., etc. “North America Animal Feed Additive Market By Type, By Livestock, By Country, Competition Forecast & Opportunities, 2013 – 2023” discusses the following aspects of animal feed additive market in North America:
