Robust growth of the regional chemical sector and increasing demand for Iso Propyl Alcohol for the production of cosmetics and pharmaceutical products are some of the factors contributing to the growth of the Isopropyl Alcohol market in North America. Latest capacity additions coupled with expansion strategies are expected to provide considerable revenues to the IPA manufacturers, which could help to scale up the North American IPA market during the forecast period. USA leads the North America IPA market due to its rising consumer base as well as the presence of major pharma companies such as Abbott, Pfizer, Merck, Johnson & Johnson, and others in the region. With the increasing awareness towards health and hygiene after the COVID-19 outbreak, people are rapidly adopting sanitization products, disinfectants, and personal care items, which is significantly contributing to the North America Iso Propyl market growth.
