Abstracts

The Saudi Arabia Restorative Dentistry Market is anticipated to witness a steady CAGR in the forecast period, 2024-2028. This can be ascribed to the increasing number of older people in the country suffering from a variety of dental disorders such as tooth decay and dental carries. For instance, the article “Dental caries in Saudi Arabia: A systematic review,” published in July 2021, stated that when the survey was conducted among the population in Saudi Arabia, the dental caries proportion level ranged from 0.05 to 0.99 and from 0.21 to 1.00 for permanent and primary teeth. Additionally, increasing demand for new technologies like laser technology for maintaining teeth health and consumption of unhealthy foods among young adults as well as older populations across the country further propels the growth of the market during the forecast period. Besides, increasing investment by government organizations in collaboration with various dental companies for the development of the oral care industry will further increase the demand for new products like mouthwash, which in turn further drives the market growth during the forecast period.

The increasing burden of oral diseases

The growing prevalence of oral diseases like tooth decay, dental caries, and oral cancer is a major factor that will propel the growth of the restorative dentistry market in Saudi Arabia during the forecast period. The aging population is more susceptible to a different type of oral diseases, which requires frequent dental visits. This is expected to create lucrative growth for the country's restorative dentistry market in the forecast period. In addition, the data published by MIT Technology Review in June 2022 shows that people living in the Gulf states are aging faster biologically; also, the article stated that the population of Saudi Arabia population is aging at an accelerated rate.

Technological advancement in dentistry

Government authorities are collaborating with different companies to enhance dental awareness and oral health by conducting and initiating campaigns and forums in the country. Laser technology is one of the important technologies which is gaining immense popularity in the field for a variety of reasons. For instance, in October 2021, the Saudi Food and Drug Administration approved Prevest DenPro products and devices, which includes a portfolio of 100 products. Saudi Arabia hosts a lot of technological events, conferences, and workshops to exchange, develop, educate people, and provide information or build expertise for its scientific community and industries, which in turn is expected to boost the market growth over the years. The economic status of the target population seems to be the major driving factor that will enhance the demand for the restorative dentistry market.
