Abstracts

UAE Bronchoscope market is expected to grow at an impressive rate in the upcoming years. Bronchoscopy is a technique that doctors or medical staff use to inspect a patient's lungs or air passage. During this process operator who specializes in checking lung disorders inserts a thin tube through the mouth or nose into the lungs to examine the situation. It is a primary tool to inspect suspected lung portions after reviewing the reports on X-rays. The WHO report in 2004 said, 'Lungs or respiratory problems is going to be the third main reason of death worldwide in 2030.' Thus, the demand for bronchoscopes is going to increase as doctors majorly prefer them for primary examination in any lung disease or problem. Government initiatives, increasing population, poor quality of air, and tobacco consumption are the key reasons for the rise in lung and respiratory problems and are anticipated to indirectly impact the market growth of the bronchoscope market.

Rising Lungs-Related Problems and Diseases to Propel the Market Growth

A bronchoscope device has a thin wire structure on which the camera is installed at the end. It is used to detect COPD, tumors, blockage, and other issues related to respiration in the trachea, windpipe, and lungs. It is used in the diagnosis & identification of lungs problem, removal of mucus, foreign bodies, and obstruction in the airways, and placing a stent inside veins. According to Boehringer Ingelheim, in 2018, almost 40 million people faced lung and respiratory diseases in the region. Eating tobacco and air pollution are the primary reasons for the increasing respiration problems. Almost 24% of the people of UAE are estimated to consume tobacco regularly, and the chances of suffering from COPD are high for them. As per WHO, there will be almost 60 million people in UAE who are going to suffer from COPD. Thus, the expected increase in lungs related problems is going to positively impact the growth of the bronchoscope market.

High Prices for the Maintenance and Operation are Affecting the Market Growth

The cost of treatment in the UAE is substantially higher than in other regions. Bronchoscopes require time and cost to keep the device clean, and cross-infection-free is high. The price of any product plays a significant role in the customer's mind while taking any treatment or service. The requirement for skilled staff to handle the product and the difficulties faced during treatment are key restraints for the growth of the market.

Technological Advancement robust the Market share

Investing more capital in R&D by key players for technological advancement is estimated to create more opportunities in terms of revenue through the projected year. Advancement and development of enhanced bronchoscopy like white-light bronchoscopy, auto-fluorescence (blue light), and navigational bronchoscopy are expected to positively impact the growth of the market.
