Abstracts

UAE medical loupes market is anticipated to register growth with an impressive CAGR in the forecast period, 2023-2027, on the account of increasing instances of surgical approaches for the treatments. The growing complexity of the surgeries and increasing instances of chronic diseases like cardiovascular diseases, neurological diseases, cancer, etc. further drive the growth of the UAE medical loupes market in the upcoming five years. Technological advancement in the equipment further aids the growth of the UAE medical loupes market in the next five years.

A magnifying lens is either monocular or binocular used during surgeries by surgeons to enhance the surgical location such that enhanced vision can conduct complicated and complex surgeries. The lens is usually set in an eyepiece or head frame that provides a highly defined vision for examination as well as surgical procedures.

Growing Cancer Burden Drives Market Growth

Increasing instances of cancer in the country is a major driver supporting the growth of the UAE medical loupes market in the upcoming five years. With technologically advanced medical devices and early diagnosis of cancer at its initial stages, surgical approaches to remove the cancerous cell and tumors are increasing. Removal of tumors is often a complex procedure that requires extreme precision and expert approaches. Medical loupes make sure that the clear visibility of the location of the tumor and enhanced vision during the surgery is supported. Thus, increasing the demand for medical loupes.

In the year 2020, 4807 new cancer cases were discovered in the United Arab Emirates. Breast cancer and lung cancer if detected in early stages hold the scope for surgical removal. Breast cancer new cases among the female population in 2020, were 1030. Cancer instances among the female population were higher as compared to the male population. Mastectomy procedures and surgical removal of the tentative tumor cells mostly among the population with histories are further aiding the growth of the UAE medical loupes market in the future five years.

Increasing Dental Surgeries Drive Market Growth

Rising concerns among the population toward dental health are adding to the demands for medical loupes by dentists. The increasing number of dentists and their expertise in surgical dental treatment is anticipated to further aid the growth of the UAE medical loupes market in the upcoming five years. The number of deaths per thousand inhabitants in Dubai was 0.8 in the year 2019. Further expansion in dental care is also expected to support the growth of the market.

Moreover, dental healthcare in the Dubai region is growing. With growing patient burden due to prolonged exposure to unhealthy dental habits, consumption of alcohol and sugary food, etc. further adds to the surgical treatment for dental problems. The total number of dentists in the Dubai Health Authority (DHA) was 197 in the year 2019.
