Abstracts

The Vietnam Loan Market is anticipated to project robust growth during the forecast period owing to increasing attractive marketing strategies, rising demand from small business sector, increasing internet penetration and digitalization.

The steadily growing economy, rising consumer demand, increasing trade and declining interest rates are the elements that create the ideal conditions for customers to take loan and take advantage of a business opportunity during the forecast period.

Local banks proved their strength by overcoming the pandemic's obstacles and the financial industry maintained steady liquidity in 2020 and 2021. The Vietnamese banking industry saw total loans increase by 13.5% and total deposits grow by 8.4% in 2021.

Relaxation in Overall Lending Standards To Fuel The Market Growth

Credit institutions are projected to ease the lending standards in investment, tourism, securities, finance, banking, and insurance sector. In the real estate sector, credit criteria is still projected to remain the same or possibly tighten. However, the terms and conditions of loans to purchase real estate for individual clients remained loose in 2022.

Thus, with ease in lending standards there was increase in demand for loan. For instance, in the first six months of 2022, 42.9% of lending institutions reported they had met 100% of their customers borrowing requirements. Notably, 16 major commercial banks reported meeting loan demand at a high rate (more than 75%) in the first six months of 2022. Thus, with ease in availability of loan, the Vietnam Loan Market is expected to grow at a fast rate.

Booming Digitalization to Boost The Market Growth

The fintech sector for e.g., MoMo, Moca in Vietnam has advanced significantly owing to the rising preference for digital payment services as more consumers choose cashless ways and digital solutions as the nation acclimates to a 'new normal' brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic. Vietnam News reported that 71% of users use e-wallets at least once every week. Consumers are now more likely to use electronic payment methods for their online purchases and loan payment. As the public's use of smartphones and the internet rises, more individuals are getting interested in learning more about digital technology and solutions. Thus, all these factors are expected to play an important role in driving the growth of Vietnam Loan Market.

Rising Demand from Business Sector Will Fuel the Market Growth

Small businesses frequently have to borrow money from friends or family members or even pledge assets as collateral to secure finance. Due to these difficulties, the SMEs loan market is used to be the competition for many financial institutions. To resolve these problems, banks and other institutions are coming up with online lending platforms to help small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs). For instance, The Funding Societies, which is one of the largest digital financing platforms for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) in Southeast Asia, has already disbursed USD 20 million in loans in Vietnam. In Vietnam, the sector of lending money to small and medium-sized businesses is booming owing to the emergence of several platforms that support loan availability in easy manner than the traditional banks. Thus, demand of loans from business sector is expected to have huge impact on Vietnam Loan market.
