Abstracts

The Middle East and North Africa region is one of huge contradictions. From significant opportunities for development and investment at one end- to substantial barriers the other.

Middle East & North Africa Transport and Logistics 2014 offers a detailed look at the region, it's markets and it's potential. It also takes a look at which countries within the region have been allowed to prosper as well as which countries have the potential to emerge at the next investment hot spot.

From Dubai to Beirut, Saudi Arabia to Tunisia, Syria to Oman- the Middle East and North Africa region is both dynamic and volatile. However, for those in a position to exploit them the advantages of the region could be significant.

A unique framework for a unique region

Middle East & North Africa Transport and Logistics 2014 uses a unique framework of analysis which divides the region in to three diverse categories:

War zone- A level of political instability inhibits growth through social unrest, wars corruption or mismanagements

Growth Zone- comparative political and economic stability with low-medium GDP per head and a young or growing population.

Money zone- smaller populations with high revenue streams but low capital assets outside oil and gas.

This allows the opportunities and risks for investors in transportation and logistics to be methodically reviewed and assessed.

MARKET TRENDS, DEVELOPMENTS, SIZE AND FORECASTS

With 39 detailed logistics provider profiles and 16 individual country profiles, the Middle East and North Africa Transport and Logistics 2014 report contains a wealth of information.
