Abstracts

Initial coin offering (done with cryptographic tokens) is quickly becoming an important method for businesses and organizations to raise funds for projects through token crowdsales.

As of today, there is a dearth of precise and reliable set of criteria for the new platforms assessment within the framework of the ICO market due to the fact that this market is new and based on the blockchain industry.

Therefore, investors have nothing to do but to seek information on ICO projects piece by piece from a range of sources, including companies' websites and forums, where points of view, experience and thoughts expressed are usually highly subjective.

The Initial Coin Offering Report was created to help you launch and manage your own Initial Coin Offerings (ICOs) or Token Sales. This Report is a source for latest information on the ICO market situation. The research contains descriptive and analytical parts, enriched with tables and figures.

The Initial Coin Offering Report provides the latest and detailed market data across the most important and successful ICO crowdsales and lists the dates that matter: ICOs and non-ICO blockchain rounds, ICO and non-ICO funds, blockchain angels, ICO participation platforms.

The ICO market review also keeps track of major ICO events and conferences where you can meet important people in the ICO space and stay on top of the latest news and industry trends.

With this report, you can explore and join the $150 billion+ market of cryptographic assets.
