Food Processing Industry

The global food processing industry is worth more than $ xx billion to more than xx businesses. Food processing industry is currently affected by many external factors such as economic trends, climate change, demographic changes and emerging economies. The three leading regions in global food processing industry sales are EU with xx%, the US with x% and China with x%. Although the situation of the nCoV disease is complicated, the processing industry is quite complicated. Food will not be much affected by the fact that this is an essential consumer industry, even some groups will benefit such as instant noodles, canned food, except starch processing industry will be affected. big due to the market

The main export is China. Currently, because China restricts trade with many countries to control the disease, so exporting cassava starch products to this market, especially through border trade, will be very difficult, especially in Q1/2020.
