Report Details

The wireless market accounted of over 45% of the total telecoms CAPEX (Capital Expenditure) in 2012. This figure will further increase in the coming years as spending are directed away from the fixed infrastructure towards the wireless technologies such as LTE (Long Term Evolution) that increases the data speed and reduces the cost per mega bits of data for the service providers. Our research suggests that the overall mobile operators infrastructure CAPEX increased 8% in 2012 led by Asia and North America, and will increase by 7.2% in 2013 with all key regions contributing to the growth. LTE, 3G and WiFi offload equipment revenue share will rise while the market for WiMAX will continue to shrink. Given the market dynamics, Visiongain believes that the LTE equipment revenues will increase at CAGR of 13% while the WCDMA RAN market will contract by -5%. Overall 3G, WiMAX and LTE equipment revenues will grow at 3% CAGR over the report's forecast period.

The report contains 103 tables, charts and graphs that add visual analysis in order to explain developing trends within the wireless infrastructure market. Visiongain provides forecasts for the period 2013-2018 in terms of value (US$) for the global wireless infrastructure CAPEX, as well as for vendor revenues from 3G, LTE, Wi-Fi offload and WiMAX. In addition, six regional markets are forecast and analysed by Visiongain over the period 2013-2018. The report also provides profiles of 17 leading vendors operating within the market and key developments in the operator landscape.
