Abstracts

The strong growth in emerging markets and the premiumisation and anti-aging trends in developed markets have increased the value in cosmetics packaging markets worldwide. As cosmetics packaging becomes more innovative and expensive. Strong growth is expected to emerge from emerging and developing markets where consumers increasingly demand more of non-essential cosmetics products.

This development is expected to continue throughout the forecast period, thus visiongain has determined that the value of the global cosmetics packaging market in 2013 will reach $25.23bn.
