Abstracts

The global Bone Cement market size is poised to register 6.05% growth (CAGR) from 2024 to 2030, presenting significant growth prospects for companies operating in the industry. The industry study analyzes the global Bone Cement market By Product (Polymethyl Methacrylate Cement, Glass Polyalkenoate Cement, Calcium Phosphate Cement), By Application (Total Knee Arthroplasty, Total Shoulder Arthroplasty, Total Hip Arthroplasty, Others).

In the bone cement market, key trends focus on the development of biocompatible, antimicrobial, and radiopaque formulations to improve surgical outcomes and long-term implant stability in orthopedic and spinal procedures. Advances in biomaterial science enable the production of bone cements with enhanced mechanical properties, adhesive strength, and biodegradability, ensuring optimal fixation and integration with surrounding bone tissue. Additionally, the incorporation of antibiotic-loaded bone cements reduces the risk of postoperative infection and implant-related complications, particularly in joint replacement and revision surgeries. Moreover, the integration of radiopaque additives such as barium sulfate and zirconium dioxide enhances cement visibility and facilitates intraoperative visualization and implant placement under fluoroscopy or imaging guidance. Furthermore, the customization of bone cement formulations to match patient-specific anatomical and biomechanical requirements enhances surgical precision and reduces the risk of implant loosening and failure, driving market demand and adoption in orthopedic and spinal procedures..
