Abstracts

Burkholderia (Melioidosis) Drug Development Pipeline Study, H2 2018 is the latest infectious disease publication with comprehensive information of Burkholderia pipeline products.

DISEASE OVERVIEW

Increase in prevalence of lung diseases is one of the main drivers behind the growth in Burkholderia (Melioidosis) Infections disease. South East Asian countries and Pacific nations are largely affected by the disease. Tropical and developing countries in Sub Saharan African and Latin American regions are also witnessing melioidosis.

Around 0.2 million patients are affected with the melioidosis disease and around half of the patients witness mortality. Poor diagnosis is the main challenge in detecting and treating Burkholderia Infections disease.

Individuals with low immunity levels and patients suffering from renal, lung and liver diseases are more susceptible to be affected by the highly pathogenic bacterium. Presence of the bacteria is detected through laboratory diagnosis of blood or urine or sputum.

Exposure to soil or water contaminated with these bacteria is the primary cause for occurrence of melioidosis.

Nine companies are actively developing therapeutic compounds for treatment of Melioidosis Infections. A total of 10 therapeutic candidates are being developed which include vaccines such as MVA-BN Vaccine and Syntiron Vaccines.

Companies actively investing their resources in Burkholderia Infection pipeline include%li%AlgiPharma AS, Bavarian Nordic A/S, Emergent BioSolutions Inc, Forge Therapeutics Inc, Grifols SA, MerLion Pharmaceuticals Pte Ltd, Soligenix Inc, Syntiron LLC and VenatoRx Pharmaceuticals.
