The global Cardiac Biomarkers market size is poised to register 12.79% growth from 2024 to 2030, presenting significant growth prospects for companies operating in the industry. The industry study analyzes the global Cardiac Biomarkers market across By Type (Troponin, CK-MB, Myoglobin, BNP and NT-proBNP, Others), By Application (Acute Coronary Syndrome, Myocardial Infarction, Congestive Heart Failure, Others), By End user (Laboratory Testing, Point of Care Testing).

The cardiac biomarkers market is experiencing significant growth due to increasing prevalence of cardiovascular diseases, advancements in diagnostic technologies, and rising demand for early detection and risk stratification of cardiac conditions. Cardiac biomarkers are measurable substances or proteins released into the bloodstream in response to cardiac injury, stress, or dysfunction, serving as diagnostic and prognostic indicators of various heart-related disorders, such as myocardial infarction, heart failure, and acute coronary syndrome. With a focus on cardiovascular health and preventive care, cardiologists, emergency physicians, and clinical laboratories are utilizing cardiac biomarker assays, such as troponin, B-type natriuretic peptide (BNP), and high-sensitivity C-reactive protein (hs-CRP), to assess cardiac function, predict adverse events, and guide treatment decisions in patients with suspected or diagnosed cardiovascular conditions, improving clinical outcomes and reducing healthcare costs in cardiology practice.
