Abstracts

The global Eye Health Supplements market size is poised to register 7.07% growth from 2024 to 2030, presenting significant growth prospects for companies operating in the industry. The industry study analyzes the global Eye Health Supplements market across By Type (Antioxidants, Fatty Acids, Anti-inflammatory Supplements, Neuro-Protective Supplements, Others), By Indication (Age-Related Macular Degeneration (AMD), Cataract, Dry Eye Syndrome, Diabetic Retinopathy, Others).

The eye health supplements market is experiencing robust growth, driven by increasing awareness of age-related eye diseases such as macular degeneration, cataracts, and dry eye syndrome, rising prevalence of digital eye strain, and growing demand for preventive eye care and nutritional interventions to support ocular health and vision function. With a focus on protecting the eyes from oxidative stress, inflammation, and photochemical damage, consumers are incorporating eye health supplements containing vitamins, minerals, antioxidants, and omega-3 fatty acids into their daily diet to maintain retinal health, reduce the risk of vision loss, and alleviate symptoms of ocular discomfort and fatigue. Additionally, expanding applications in geriatric medicine, pediatric ophthalmology, and sports vision enhancement, along with growing interest in personalized nutrition and nutraceutical formulations targeting specific eye conditions and lifestyle factors, are driving market expansion as stakeholders seek evidence-based dietary supplements and wellness solutions to promote lifelong eye health and optimize visual performance in diverse populations across age groups and demographic segments.
