Abstracts

As a typical microbial pesticide, abamectin has been widely used on vegetables, fruits, wheat, rice and cotton, etc. with excellent effect on many pests. Driving by the sharp increase demand in domestic and overseas market, the development of Chinese abamectin industry has developed quickly in 2007-2009, which has attracted some enterprises entered the abamectin industry or expanded their abamectin capacity.

The concept of environment protection and sustainable development has stimulated China Government paying more attention on environment protection and energy conservation in recent years. The supervision of wastewater treatment in agrochemical industry became more stringent, and some of pesticide enterprises have been shut down or rectified and reform because of the problem of wastewater treatment. Abamectin industry also has influenced by the environmental policies. What's more, some abamectin technical producers have reduced abamectin production in recent years with considering that abamectin is a product with high consumption of energy and low output. For the application of abamectin, the resistance has appeared because of the increasing application.
