The less storage and restricted size of the memory card in mobile phone limits the adoption of the augmented reality apps. Other factors limiting the growth of the market are the high cost of the software and devices and lack of knowledge about the technology.

SEGMENTATION

Software and hardware are two essential components of AR in enterprise solutions. Key hardware components used in augmented reality technology includes cameras, sensors, semiconductors, position trackers, projection display, etc. Whereas, the software components include software development kits, software functions, and cloud-based services. On the basis of the component, the hardware segment accounted for the major market share in the global AR in enterprise market. In 2017, more than 60% of market share was contributed by the hardware segment. For the utilization of augmented reality applications terminal devices with intense hardware, modules are very vital. The key functions such as visibility and operating effects depend on the quality of hardware. Thus the rising demand for the technically advanced and easy to operate hardware for augmented reality is expected to propel the growth of hardware segment over the forecast period.

A head-mounted display, heads-up display, and smart glass are the three major types of displays used in AR in enterprise market. The head-mounted display segment is expected to register the highest CAGR growth of 52.2% between 2017 and 2025. The head-mounted display is one of the basic components in the headsets.
