Global Commercial Aircraft Video Surveillance Systems Market: Overview

Commercial aircraft video surveillance systems are used to monitor ground maneuvering during cabin and external security, flight crew observation of aircraft control surfaces, taxi operations, and monitoring of commercial and military aircraft refueling. They are used to cockpit door surveillance and cabin surveillance. Cockpit door surveillance system ensures that only authorized personnel can enter the cockpit. Hence, it is important while choosing components; it should be able to identify entrants in the all cabin conditions such as dark or light. Commercial aircraft video surveillance systems transmit video to a central processing unit and this video is sent to cockpit displays. However, in order to provide better situational awareness to pilots more cameras can be set according to the position of the camera and field of view.

Global Commercial Aircraft Video Surveillance Systems Market: Growth Factors

Increasing importance of the passenger safety in the commercial aircraft drives the global commercial aircraft video surveillance systems market growth. Video surveillance systems are considered cost-effective ensuring the security of personnel and infrastructure. This is anticipated to boost the global market growth. Aircraft regulatory bodies across the world make sure that video cameras are fit inside the aircraft cabin and cockpit doors for surveillance; this may foster the global market growth in the coming years. Advanced video surveillance systems are capable of showing clear images with a minimum requirement of hardware at night. Major airline companies are investing highly in the smart video surveillance systems, which is anticipated to contribute to the global market growth in the near future.

Global Commercial Aircraft Video Surveillance Systems Market: Segmentation

The global commercial aircraft video surveillance systems market is segregated based on the system as environmental camera system, cockpit door surveillance system, and cabin surveillance system. On the basis of assembly, the global market is classified as line-fit, and retro-fit.

Global Commercial Aircraft Video Surveillance Systems Market: Regional Analysis

Geographically, the global commercial aircraft video surveillance systems market is segmented as Europe, Asia Pacific, North America, Latin America, and the Middle East Africa. North America is the leading region in the global market owing to the positive impact on the aviation industries. Latin America is growing at a faster rate to grab largest market share. However, commercial aircraft video surveillance systems are capable of analyzing the passenger behavior, and hence, improving the safety and security of passengers in the Latin America. This may positively impact the global commercial aircraft video surveillance systems market in this region. Moreover, a significant increase in air passenger traffic has increased the need for video surveillance systems in Europe fueling the global market in future.
